Dear note,

I am at Johannesburg ⁱⁿ at my mom's house.
Also, is Dineo alright and is she feeling well?
I was sorry to send nana and sorry for leaving. Tiro is actually fearless.

It felt so long, it was very long, boring and long but then, we went into an orange farm. But then, a boy, who worked on the farm, named Tiro and I to not get oranges. So, the farm boy led us to a secret place because of the other farmer, ^{the} we slept there.

The next day, we were walking to Johannesburg
but, a truck was driving on the road. A truck driver, who was like for us with let us go on his truck. The back of the truck was narrow.
The truck driver let us have some of his food.
It was way more easier than walking on to hot,
dirty road.

At last, we reached the big city of Jo'burg.
Then, we got out of the truck and people started to shout at us. A woman, whose name

A(n) old man with white, bushy hair, dark brown eyes and dirty oversized clothes, lived in a tin-cott cottage. This man was very independent and a hard worker he even made some sleek handcrafted glasses. The old man used his strong arms to try and clean up all of the tin rubbish. He saw a big water pipe on he picked it up and carried it all the way home. After this, the old man felt exhausted and went to bed to rest.

LI: To extract information about a character from an image.

He looks old and aged and still strong because he can move the metal and have the energy to do that and also burn it.

He is helpful because he is gradually getting rid of everyone's rubbish but he does it without anyone asking though.

The old man is friendly and wants to get rid of all the rubbish and also metal.

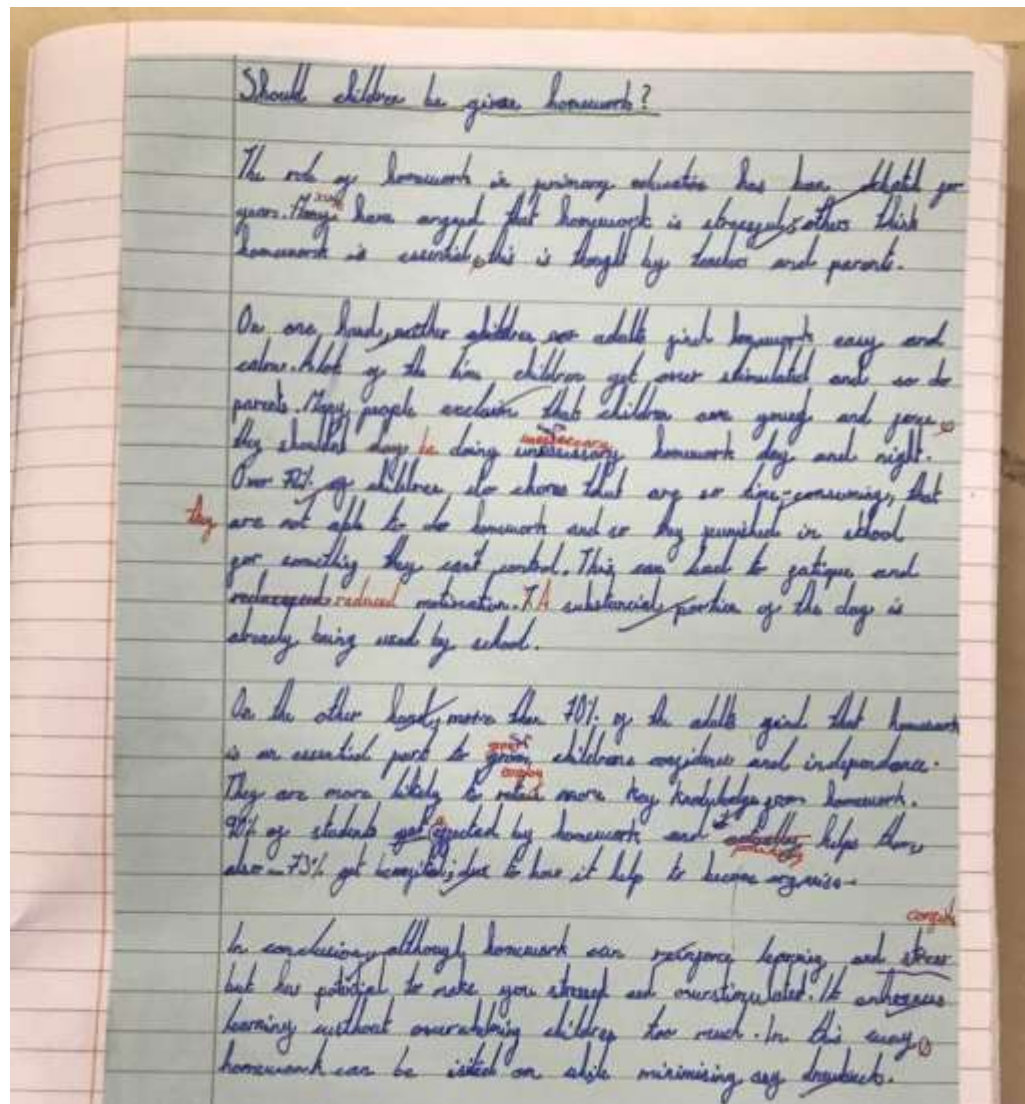

He has white hair on the outsides of scalp making a bushy, prickly path that leads to his ear then his chin.

He feels happy because he is smiling and looking into the book even while everything is happening right outside his house.

His pale, ghostly skin seemed in contrast with his grey hair. He likes and does gardening because he has a shovel, plants and on the front cover, it shows a colourful glower with grey, metal-looking trees surrounding it. He has grey hair on the very outsides of his scalp, making a bushy, prickly path that leads to his ear then down to his chin. He is reading a book while in the background a toucan (- made out of metal) couldn't be told dead or alive. It was as if he ground pieces of it and put them all together.
